

The biggest impact that TV Violence has on Children is when parents don't turn off the TV. The problem isn't violence on TV, its Parents who won't take control of the remote. The First Amendment guarantees our right to speak free from Federal interference. It does not require us to listen. Parents should take back the remote, and if they don't like the programing, turn it off.